First Winner of Depeche Mode's Facebook Contest Publishes Memoir About Following the Band on Tour

Los Angeles, Calif., April 18, 2017 – As Depeche Mode hit the road on their latest tour, one fan has released her tale of following the British synth-gods around Spain on what Q magazine referred to as the "the most debauched rock tour ever," 1993's Devotional Tour.

Jenna Rose Robbins' memoir, Faithful and Devoted: Confessions of a Music Addict, is a coming-of-age adventure that offers a glimpse into a subculture where unchecked fanaticism can lead to both euphoric and devastating consequences. As a love letter to fellow music addicts, her book brings readers face to face with the artists she idolized, while speaking directly to the heart of every music fan.

"My goal was to write a story that fans of any band — not just Depeche Mode — could relate to," says Robbins. "I wanted to show just how obsessed we can get, and how, in my case, that had some unexpected consequences."

Robbins has ghostwritten more than 12 books, including two New York Times bestsellers, but Faithful and Devoted is the first with her name gracing the cover. She moved up the publishing date when she learned she was the first fan chosen to participate in Depeche Mode's Facebook Takeover, where throughout the year a new fan is chosen each day to create posts for the band's Facebook page, which has more than seven million followers.

Faithful and Devoted hit number one in two Amazon Kindle categories, Pop Culture > Music and Music > History & Criticism. Depeche Mode also just released an album that debuted at #5 on the Billboard 200.
